Resort Hotels in the Canadian Rockies

TO the motorist seeking a vacation that combines recreation, comfort and convenience, in a scenic setting unparalleled the world over, the Canadian Rockies stand foremost in appeal.

From the Pacific Coast states, fine highways lead into this magnificent territory through several central points of entry. Once in the Rockies, the same excellent roads prevail and a vacation by motor is a succession of delightful thrills—whether one is en route or stopping off at one of the famous Canadian Pacific Resort Hotels or Chalet-Bungalow Camps.

The Resort Hotels are four in number: Banff Springs Hotel, Chateau Lake Louise, Emerald Lake Chalet and the Palliser Hotel. While the latter is not strictly a resort, its location in Calgary makes it a distinct part of a complete motor tour of the Rockies. Each of these hotels is strategically located to appeal to the motorist, and each affords much opportunity for its guests' recreation and pleasure.

Banff Springs Hotel is a magnificent hostelry in the heart of the Banff National Park, backed by three splendid mountain ranges. The hot springs here are among the most important on the American Continent. Alpine climbing, swimming, golf on a new championship course, tennis, fishing, boating, horseback riding and hiking are among the diversions that Banff affords.

Chateau Lake Louise, on Lake Louise, Alberta, is another hotel of metropolitan magnificence, facing an exquisite Alpine lake in the same district as Banff. Here may be found Alpine climbing with Swiss guides, pony trips or walks to several points of interest, horseback riding, swimming, boating and fishing.

Emerald Lake Chalet, near Field, British Columbia, is situated at the foot of Mt. Burgess in Yoho National Park. Roads and trails from this charming Chalet hotel lead to Burgess Pass, Yoho Valley and other neighboring scenic points, and boating and fishing may be enjoyed on Emerald Lake.

The Hotel Palliser, at Calgary, Alberta, is a handsome hotel that caters to the motorist en route to or from the Canadian Rockies. Calgary is known particularly for its fine golf courses and its interesting scenic attractions, and a day or two spent here with the Palliser as headquarters is always highly enjoyable.

In each of these Resort Hotels, Canadian Pacific service, cuisine and standards assure complete enjoyment for every guest.

Chalet-Bungalow Camps in the Rockies

Wapta

One of the hubs of the Rockies, Wapta Chalet-Bungalow Camp is the first camp reached traveling west from Lake Louise. It is located on the far side of Wapta Lake across from Hector Station, just four and one-half miles west of the Great Divide. It is 5,200 feet above sea-level. A veritable village of cabins forms the Camp.

The main, or Community building, has a wide verandah on three sides. It consists of a large combination dining and lounging room with open fireplace, also reading and working room. Cabins are scattered among the spruce and pine trees on the hill, and others are located on the shore of the Lake. Each cabin has a large verandah, hardwood floors, screened windows, electric lights, running water and compact little stoves.

Wapta offers particular advantages to the fisherman, hiker and horseback enthusiast, with many delightful trips of varied lengths easily arranged any time. Saddle horses and row-boats for hire.

Accommodations: Meals for transient guests; sleeping accommodations for 55 guests.

Season: June 15 to September 15.

Rates: $5.50 per day; $35.00 per week. American plan.

Postal Address: Wapta Chalet-Bungalow Camp, Hector, B. C.

Reached via: Main line Canadian Pacific Railway trains to Hector; or motor road from Banff to Golden.

Radium Hot Springs

Ninety miles from Banff, on the Banff-Windermere Highway, Radium Hot Springs Chalet-Bungalow Camp is situated on a hill overlooking Sinclair Canyon. The surroundings of this camp are among the most exotic of any of the Bungalow Camps.

The Camp consists of a large building with a wide verandah and a combination dining and lounging room with an open fireplace. Clustered about it are the sleeping bungalows, each with single beds, clothes closet, stove, table, chairs, washstand and mirror. The Camp is equipped with electric lights, has two bath houses with tub or showers and hot and cold running water.

The principal appeal here lies in the radio-active hot springs that have decided remedial properties. An open air swimming pool with adjoining bathhouse has been built by the government. Temperature of water, 114° to 118° F.

Accommodations: Meals for transient guests; sleeping accommodations for 45 guests.

Season: June 15 to September 15.

Rates: $5.50 per day; $35.00 per week. American plan.

Postal Address: Radium Hot Springs Chalet-Bungalow Camp, Radium Hot Springs, British Columbia.

Reached via: Banff-Windermere Highway, west from Banff or east from Lake Louise. Also by train from Golden or Cranbrook, nearest station Park Gate, B. C.

Castle Mountain

Castle Mountain Chalet-Bungalow Camp, twenty-six miles from either Banff or Lake Louise in Banff National Park, stands high up above the world overlooking the sweeping amphitheatre of peaks that encompass the Bow River.

It consists of a main building, constructed of logs, with a broad verandah and containing a combination lounging and dining room. Clustered around it are sleeping bungalows, also of log construction, some with one room and others with two rooms. Each has a verandah, single beds, clothes closet, fireplace, table, chairs, washstand and mirror. There are two bath-houses with hot and cold running water, and separate bathroom and toilets. The Camp has electric lights throughout.

Although Castle Mountain is noted primarily for its magnificent scenic attractions, anglers will find nearby lakes and streams well stocked with trout and white fish. Golf enthusiasts who have their cars can motor to Banff in the morning, play 18 holes on the beautiful Banff Springs Hotel Course, and return to their cabin home the same day.

Accommodations: Meals for transient guests; sleeping accommodations for 32 guests.

Season: June 15 to September 15.

Rates: $5.50 per day; $35.00 per week. American plan.

Postal Address: Castle Mountain Chalet-Bungalow Camp, Post Office, Banff, Alta.

Reached via: Automobile highway from Banff or Lake Louise, or by train from Castle Mountain, Alta. If advised in advance automobile will meet train.

Moraine Lake

Nine miles from Chateau Lake Louise lies Moraine Lake Chalet-Bungalow Camp, situated on the shores of Moraine Lake below the high-pitched mountain ramparts that encompass the Valley of the Ten Peaks.

The Camp itself, just above the green-blue waters of the Lake, is as charming as any camp in the Canadian Rockies. There is a bright, comfortably-furnished living and dining room in the main building, which is surrounded by several smaller bungalows with sleeping accommodations.

Hikers, trail-riders and anglers who wish to linger in this magnificent region will find Moraine Lake Chalet-Bungalow Camp a delightful place for a visit.

Accommodations: Meals for transient guests; sleeping accommodations for 10 guests.

Season: June 15 to September 15.

Rates: $5.50 per day; $35.00 per week. American plan.

Postal Address: Moraine Lake Chalet-Bungalow Camp, c/o Chateau Lake Louise, Lake Louise, Alta.

Reached via: Motor road from Lake Louise station or Chateau.

(Cars leave the Chateau three times daily, or by special arrangement at any time.)

Yoho Valley

Facing Takakkaw Falls, in the beautiful Yoho Valley, this Chalet-Bungalow Camp is an ideal place for both riders and hikers. From Yoho Valley Camp begin the rides that carry on to Duchesnay Lake, Laughing Falls, Twin Falls, Yoho Glacier, Twin Falls Lodge, the High Trail, Summit Lake, Burgess Pass, even to Emerald Lake Chalet.

Yoho Valley Chalet-Bungalow Camp has a delightful community house with dining room, lounge room, sun porch and large fireplace. About it, in a semi-circle, are the sleeping bungalows, each with the simple necessities for those going into the mountains. There are both one or two-room bungalows and separate bathhouses.

Accommodations: Meals for transient guests; sleeping accommodations for 44 guests.

Season: June 15 to September 15.

Rates: $5.50 per day; $35.00 per week. American plan.

Postal Address: Yoho Valley Chalet-Bungalow Camp, via Field, British Columbia.

Reached via: Automobile road from Field Station, on the main line of the Canadian Pacific Railway; or by motor from Lake Louise, Banff, and Emerald Lake.

Lake O'Hara

Lake O'Hara Chalet-Bungalow Camp, at beautiful Lake O'Hara in Yoho National Park, lies close to the Great Divide of the Canadian Rockies. It is the only one of the Canadian Pacific camps that is not accessible by motor—the only way to reach O'Hara is on foot or by pony, over any one of three well-defined routes.

The main, or Community building, at this camp is built after the style of a Swiss Chalet; it is two stories high with comfortably furnished bed rooms on the upper floor, also bath and toilet. The lower floor consists of a large combination dining and lounging room, with open fireplace and easy chairs. In addition there are ten log cabins all built facing Lake O'Hara.

This is one of the beauty spots of the mountains, and of particular interest to those who like mountain climbing, trail riding or hiking. Very good trout fishing to be had in the lake. The camp has row-boats for guests, and saddle horses are for hire.

Accommodations: Meals for transient guests; sleeping accommodations for 34 guests.

Season: June 15 to September 15.

Rates: $5.50 per day; $35.00 per week. American plan.

Postal Address: Lake O'Hara Chalet-Bungalow Camp, via Hector, British Columbia.

Reached via: Pony trail from Wapta; Abbot Pass route from Chateau Lake Louise; Ottertail route from Field or by new trail from Chateau Lake Louise.

BANFF SPRINGS HOTEL, key hostelry of the Canadian Pacific resort chain, is a luxurious hostelry affording truly metropolitan service and accommodations. It is open from May 28 to September 26.

NOTE: The map of the Canadian Rockies, above, and the strip-maps of the motor routes into the Rockies, have been prepared with the sole purpose of showing these automobile highways in simple, graphic form for the convenience of motorists.

They are not to be construed as technically perfect; rather, they merely depict principal routes, mileage shown between arrows, and distinguishing points throughout the territory.

EMERALD LAKE CHALET, at an altitude of 4,268 feet above sea-level, is located near Field, B. C., at the foot of Mt. Burgess. It is a Chalet hotel similar to European mountain resorts, and is open from June 15 to September 15.
